WHY?

HIGHER EDUCATION

- ▶ Higher education gives you an option to gain specialised knowledge.
- ▶ At the same time, it enhances career options.
- ▶ Some organizations or companies look for postgraduates.
- ▶ A candidate who holds a master's degree after B.Sc has more job and career opportunities as compared to a bachelors degree candidate.
- ▶ Students can opt for teaching, research and development and apply for higher posts in various sectors.
- ▶ A B.Sc degree may not be sufficient for a student to decide which career option is best suited for them. Higher education gives more clarity on taking a decision on a career path.

NATIONAL WEBINAR ON SCIENCE FICTION ENGLISH

Title of the event: National Webinar on Science Fiction

Date: May 18, 2020

Venue: Online

Purpose: To create an awareness about the new and trending genre of Science Fiction in English Literature.

Details of the Resource Person: Dr. Sudhir Nikam, Dr. Suvarna Shinde, Professor Pinaki Roy, Professor Vaishali, Dr.Nandita Roy.

The Department of English of Rizvi College of Arts, Science and Commerce organised a National webinar on science fiction on May 18, 2020, in collaboration with the Board of Studies in English, University of Mumbai. It was attended by 100 participants. Ms. Bhaswati Prasar gave a general introduction about the importance of the webinar and also gave the information regarding the people involved in organising the event.

Dr. Paul Raj, the incharge Principal of the college, welcomed the gathering; he explained how the institution was built with the able leadership of the founder, Dr. Akhtar Hasan Rizvi, with a vision to make education available to all the sectors of the society. Dr. Sudhir Nikam, the Chairperson of the Board of Studies in English at the University of Mumbai, said the focus of the conference was to expose the student fraternity to the genre of science fiction. He explained how science is inculcated in fiction. Highlighting the growth in the SF market globally with statistics about sales, he said that one book out of 10 sold in UK, and four out of 10 books sold in the US, are science fiction. He said that literature and science have provided knowledge and power to its users.

He said themes of ecology, environment, and contact with aliens, alternative history, and space and time have gained momentum in recent years. Suvarna Shinde gives a keynote address and quoted past president of India and a rocket scientist APJ Abdul Kalam: "Science is a beautiful gift of humanity, and we should not distort it." Her scholarly lecture also quoted the views and works of Isaac Asimov, Robert Heinlein, and Theodore Sturgeon. She traced the history of SF from Mary Shelley's Frankenstein (1818) through Edgar Allan Poe, Jules Verne, George Orwell, and Philip K. Dick. She discussed the difference between SF movies and fantasy works. She dealt with SF movies, including Artificial Intelligence, Avatar, and PK, and placed Carbon in the top rung of SF movies.

She concluded by quoting Wordsworth's "Lines Written in Early Spring": "And much it grieved my heart to think, what man has made of man." Professor Pinaki Rao delivered a special lecture on "Science Fiction as a Literature," observing that the lockdown period has treated religion and religious beliefs as secondary, and has upheld the efforts of scientist and doctors, who are striving hard to find a way out of the crisis. Beginning his speech with the term "Scientification" he dealt with history, myth development, and the latest trends in SF. He cited instances from the works of Sidney Sheldon, described the various forms of future life, discussed characters including R. Daneel Olivaw from Isaac Asimov's Caves of Steel and Mr. Spock from Star Trek, and later he connected them to mythical references from the Mahabharata and the Ramayana. He also mentions The Lost World and Jurassic Park by Michael Crichton. The conclusion that SF need not necessarily project into the future, but can also review the past and refer to the present day. Professor Vaishali, head of the department of English at Bangalore University, Bangalore Karnataka, delivered a special lecture on "Feminist Science Fiction." She introduced the basic concepts of feminism and the latest trends, then discussed gender identity, human rights movements, and marginalisation issues.

Introducing the Indian feminist writings of Shashi Deshpande, she swiftly shifted to focus on the Bangladeshi Muslim SF writer Rokeya Sakhawat Hossain, and her story published in Sultana's Dreams (1905). It depicts a feminist utopia (called Ladyland) in which women run everything and men are secluded, in a mirror-image of the traditional practice of purdah. The women are aided by "electrical" technology which enables labour-free farming and flying cars; the women scientists have discovered how to harness solar power and control the weather. This results in "a sort of gender-based Planet of the Apes where the roles are reversed and the men are locked away in a technologically advanced future," There, traditional stereotypes such as men having larger brains or women being naturally weak and countered with logical representations like, "an elephant also has a bigger and heavier brain" and " a lion is stronger than a man," but neither dominates men. In Ladyland, crime is eliminated, since men were responsible for all of it.

The workday is only 2 hours long, since men used to waste six hours each day in smoking. The religion is one of love and truth. Purity is held above all, and the list of "Sacred Relations" is widely extended. The speaker then discussed the latest trends in feminist SF works by Indian women science fiction writers including Vandana Singh, Meghashri Dalavi, Rekha Baijal, Kalpana Kulshreshta, Sukanya Dutt, Shwetha Taneja, Pragnya Gowtham, Suhashini, and others. Nandita Roy concluded by thanking the collaborators, speakers, and participants for having made the event a grand success.

ABOUT THE WEBINAR

We are trying our best not only to utilise our time effectively but also to remain connected with the academic fraternity amidst this current critical phase of lock-down due to Covid 19 Pandemic. Therefore, in an effort towards creating and providing a platform for the academia and the researchers, Department of English, Rizvi College of Arts, Science and Commerce in collaboration with Board of Studies in English, University of Mumbai is organising a National Webinar on Science Fiction.

Science Fiction has become a part of the popular consciousness today with NASA naming its first space-shuttle after the fictional starship on 'Star Trek' or with the Transformer cut-outs at the back of the cereal packets. Anything that passes by the name of Science Fiction has become the folk-lore of the twenty first century. Even the current scenario of the Pandemic has been very vividly foretold in the movie 'Contagion' produced a decade before. A great deal of the future imagined by the science-fiction writers have actually become a reality today and therefore the genre is getting focus and attention of the researchers and academicians more than ever.

What is actually science-fiction? Is science-fiction always predictive? How does a science-fiction writer build up his futuristic world? Does the science in science-fiction always have to be accurate? Let us have the answers to many engaging questions like these on the genre and explore, hear and interact with our experts on this National Webinar on Science Fiction.
